Wast Russian Accumulations Fall Into the Hands of the Japanese.

(Dy Associated Press.)

TOKIO, September 7, 8 P. M.—The general staff has not yet made public any details of the battle of Liao Yang.

The people are still celebrating the victory, but there is considerable speculation over the official silence regarding Goneral Kurcki's movements since Sunday.

It is reported that the Japanese, not withstanding the ravages of fire, captured vast queumulations of Russian stores and ammunition at Liao Yang.

The report that Leutesant Teraouchi, son of Licottehafit-General Teraouchi, minister of war, was killed in the fighting before Liao Yūng, is denied to-day.

(By Associated Press.)

MUKDEN, Soptember 6.—(Delayed in transmission).—Part of the Russian army which is coming to Mukden by wagon-road is in danger of being cut off. All day and night Mönday, the Japanese in the hills on the East road shelled the Russian troops. In one instance, the Japanese infantry attacked at large force of Russian infantry and artillery which had taken to the hills, running parallel to the Japanese, in protecting the flank of the retreating army.

Troops, guns and trainsports are pouring into Mukden by train and road. Considerable tropsport was left behind.
The roads are in a frightful state, owing to the heavy rain Monday.

The main Russian army pushing northward, is evacuating Mukden.

THE BANQUET. Nearly 500 Present-Speeches of Watterson and Howell.

New York. Sept. ?—Nearly five hundred Democratio "editors from all parts of the United States met at a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria to-night, the occasion being a national conference of Democratic editors, which was called at the Instance of the Democratic National Committee.

Instance of the Democratic National Committee.

The toast list included geveral of the best-known Democratic editors in the country, and all of them responded to toasts on political subjects. Sylvanus E. Johnson, Washington correspondent of the Chelmant Enquirer, and a former president of the Gridiron Club, was the toastmaster. A large orchestra furnished music during the dinner. When "Dixie" was played, the diners, many of whom were from the South, jumped to their feet and the rebel yell was given several times. Enthusiasm was at the lighest pitch, when the selection was encored.

Colonel Watterson Speaks.

Colonel Johnson, in a brief speech, in-reduced Colonel Henry Watterson, who responded to the toast, "The Issue and the Outlook." He said in part: responded to the toast, "The Issue and the Outlook." He said in part;
"In order to allay curlosity and suppress conjecture, or words to that effect, it has say in the beginning that I believe we can win this presidential battle. I will go even further and say that, with anything like an even show-down of powder and ball, it will be our own fault if we lose it. The two parties will go to the finish fairly united. Each will polivery nearly, if not quite, its normal strength. The independent vote, therefore, will decide the result.

"The issue before us is whether the people will allow the Republican party to grow so potent, to so intrench itself in power as that nothing short of some dire convulsion shall be able to uproof, it, or whether they shall, before it be too late, take Roosovelt and Fairbanks by the hand and bid them stand aside, whitst in the persons of Parker and Davis they recover into their own hands the lost balance of power—of power which is now longed in the Executive Mansion at Wushington, flanked on one side by the Speaker of the House and his Committee on Rules; supported on the close side by the group of sentators who soke only to know the President's will in order to obey."

American industry. Where, then, is the danger? My able, learned and ingenlous friend, the recent Secretary of War, indes it in the age of our nominee for Vice-President. If Mr. Parker is elected President, says Mr. Root, he may make Mr. Hill Secretary of State. Then Mr. Davis, the Vice-President might die. Then some Guiteau or Czolgotz might remove President Parker—and then—and then—why Mr. Hill will be President That récalls the familiar story of the good wife who was found by her loving husband in the throes of a great sorrow. But even this luxury of grief has been denleg Mr. Root, for Mr. Hill says he won't be Secretary of Saate. I always knew Mr. Hill hate the Republicans, but I never before conceived the intensity of his hatred.

The Old Democracy.

I believe in the public credit, supported by a sound, stable circulating medium expressed in gold and silver and paper, convertible into coin on demand, the single standard of measurement permanent and absolute. I believe in the public order, all parties, the labor unions and the labor employers to be made to obey the law, the government the master of both. Through my life I have-fought to attain these ends. Some of them have been attained, Hence is it that I still believe in the people, and believing in this people, I am confident that they will take no chance, either in the would-be man on horseback, or in a new leasy power to a party already too them yes cut of the people, in the saddle, but wheready to the yest of the property of the pr

A letter from Joseph Pullizer, written form Bar Harbor, Maine, to Chairman Daniels, in which, the writer stated that physical infirmities prevented his being present, which read. The letter in part was as follows:

"The result in Vermont reported to-day should be accepted as a warning, not as a discouragement. Remember that the largest total vote ever cast in Vermont is only lifty-six thousand. It is absurd to suppose that the result of the presidential election is decleded, or eyen foreshadowed, in the fastnesses and farms of the little Green Mountain State. The contest is to be fought out in New York, the Empire State, whose habit, it is to vote independently; in the rith and populous industrial cities of Connecticut and New Jersey; on the wide plains and in the busy marts of indiana. Wiscoush and, Illinois, and in the doubtful States of the farther West. There are signs of a reaction against protection, privilege and plutocracy; against personal government, militarism, extravagance and the political power of the trust. Mr. Roosevel's weakness as a candidate in his own State has been demonstrated at every election. Should he carry the country in November, as it is possible that he may, the adverse.

"The result of the Vermont election makes it, in my judgment, all the more imperative that Judge Parkor shall realize and perform his duty to the millions of honest voters, who seek no office, look for no personial grain in this election, but who see in him, an ideal and a hope, and aspire to preserve through him, the institutions they, love. The people nead a judicial objet magistrate, but not too judicial a candidate. The judge is trained to look at both sides of the case; the candidate should have his hands full in looking after his own. From a judge is expected cautious deliveration; from the candidate inspiration, energy, promptness and aggressive impulse. It is the part of a leader to lead in the combat of ideas. In the conflict of principles, in the denunciation of public wrongs, in the presentation and enforcement of truth.

"It is because I so strongly desire Judge Parker's election that I speak

his judicial temperament. I appreciate the great personal sacrifices he has

But having accepted it, I carnestly beg of you when you see him tomorrow at Esopus to urge that he accept also the full responsibilities
